There is a need to efficiently use computer for academic use in medical students especially from rural area. This can be done by increasing computer training or by introducing a computer training module for the students in undergraduate programme. The course should include statistical software's, and also ability to search the content in the right website. As the students lack understanding and also technical skills, the course should integrate student's competency of computer skills, in their medical education, as to be update in academic and professional career.
